10 highlights

Info Norden is the oldest and only pan-Nordic information service for residents of the Nordic countries. The service is central to the work of the Nordic Council of Ministers to realise its vision 2030 of a competitive and integrated Nordic Region with free movement for citizens and businesses.

1. 25 years with Info Norden: In 2023, Info Norden celebrated 25 years of information on free movement and combating border barriers in the Nordic countries. The anniversary was marked in connection with the session of the Nordic Council in Oslo, and with a conference in Copenhagen.
2. Record number of visits to the Info Norden web pages: In 2023, for the first time ever, the Info Norden web pages were visited more than two million times. The pages were viewed 2.6 million times, and users were especially looking for information about Norway. Seven of Info Norden's ten most-read articles are about Norway.
3. The Info Norden web pages are ever more efficiently ensuring that users find relevant information online: The number of inquiries has decreased from 5,370 in the record year 2022 to 4,614 in 2023, but the rising number of visits to Info Norden's webpages shows that more users are finding the information they need without having to contact Info Norden. The proportion of inquiries in relation to the number of web visits has thus been reduced from 2.8 inquiries per 1,000 web visits in 2022 to 2.3 in 2023. This is in line with the efforts of Info Norden to ensure that as many users as possible can find the answers they are looking for at norden.org.
4. Easier access to reporting border barriers: Info Norden has intensified its communication on collecting information on border barriers by making it even clearer to users how they can use Info Norden's channels to report potential border barriers and other problems relating to cross-border mobility. The proportion of user inquiries that Info Norden has registered as possible examples of border barriers increased in 2023 to 32.9 per 1,000 inquiries, as compared to 25.5 the previous year.
5. Nordic cooperation as a good example in Brussels: Info Norden spoke at the "State of the Union Citizens' Rights" conference of the European Citizen Action Services concerning the work of providing information and support to citizens and businesses in the Nordic Region, and about other aspects of Nordic cooperation. Info Norden presented the vision of the Nordic Council of Ministers for the Nordic Region to become the world's most integrated region, and briefed on both historical and current initiatives to combat obstacles and barriers and promote mobility in the Nordic Region.

6. Theme meetings on Nordic border barriers: In 2023, Info Norden organised a series of themed meetings for its partners on border barriers. The meetings provided an important joint Nordic perspective on issues that are usually dealt with at national or EU level. Info Norden held an information meeting for the Finnish Border Barrier Network on the EU Single Digital Gateway Regulation and on implementing the Once-Only Technical System in the Nordic countries. During a study visit by the Social Security Committee of the Swedish parliament to Oslo, Info Norden provided information on Nordic border barriers within the remit of the committee.
7. Focus on Info Norden's media expertise: In 2023, Info Norden's activities were highlighted in several Nordic media, both in connection with the anniversary and because of the expertise of Info Norden's project managers in the area of freedom of movement in the Nordic countries. The publicity for Info Norden has shed light on the many opportunities and challenges faced by Nordic residents when moving, commuting or studying across Nordic borders, including emigration from Finland to Norway, problems with obtaining a bank account in Sweden, and special Nordic rights for Nordic citizens.
8. Nordic co-operation on the agenda on Nordic Day: On 23 March, Nordic Day, the Nordic co-operation celebrated its role as the world's oldest regional co-operation, inter alia with debates on current Nordic issues. Info Norden contributed to events in several different countries on the day. At one debate, the Nordic ambassadors were called upon to commit to strengthening the cooperation between the Nordic countries, while in another, candidates for the Finnish Parliament discussed how best to combine national and common Nordic interests in a way that will benefit citizens and businesses in the Nordic countries. The events brought together more than 1,000 participants in total.
9. Info Norden reaches out to the youth of the West Nordic Region: In several parts of the West Nordic Region, Info Norden has participated in activities aimed at raising public awareness. Info Norden has provided information about the possibilities of working and studying abroad via a tour of settlements in South Greenland, stands at career fairs, and information meetings at youth study programmes in the Faroe Islands and Iceland.
10. Good dialogue with the Nordic embassies: Info Norden has developed positive and constructive cooperation with the Nordic embassies. The dialogue focuses in particular on facilitating an effective exchange of information concerning the challenges faced by residents of the Nordic countries when they wish to move to, work in or study in another Nordic country. During the year, Info Norden and the embassies have been in contact both at formal joint information meetings and via ongoing dialogue on specific issues.

For more than 25 years, Info Norden has placed the Nordic Region on the agenda, so that we politicians can make things easier for citizens in their everyday lives. I am convinced that Info Norden will be needed for many years to come, because the Nordic Region is made up of eight countries with different sets of legislation that are constantly evolving.”

Morten Dahlin, Danish Minister for Nordic Cooperation

Info Norden has offices in the eight Nordic capitals, and can respond to inquiries in Danish, Finnish, Faroese, Greenlandic, Icelandic, Norwegian, Swedish or English.

10 possibilities and rights

For decades, the Nordic countries have secured a wide range of rights for their citizens in the region. Every day, students, job-seekers and companies contact Info Norden to find out about their possibilities to make use of the freedom of movement in the Nordic countries, and about their rights in other Nordic countries. Listed below are the ten topics most frequently asked about when people contacted Info Norden in 2023.

1. Rights of non-Nordic citizens: The Nordic labour market is of interest to job-seekers from all over the world, including in the fields of health, IT, logistics and engineering. Many third-country nationals resident in the Nordic countries also contact Info Norden with questions about work permits in other Nordic countries.
2. Work, job seeking and unemployment benefits: Job-seekers want to know how to find work in other Nordic countries, what rights and obligations they have in the labour market, how to obtain unemployment benefits if they become unemployed, and whether they can take their unemployment benefits with them to another Nordic country while looking for a job.
3. Social security: Both individuals and companies seek information on applicable law, pensions, parental benefit, family benefits, housing benefit, sickness benefit and unemployment insurance in connection with relocation, commuting, temporary residence and teleworking.
4. Civil registration, ID and civil registration numbers: Residents want to know what the requirements are for civil registration in the individual Nordic countries, and how they can obtain a civil registration number and e-ID when they move, work, study or buy a house in another Nordic country.
5. School and education: Children, young people, parents and student counsellors seek information on how to take all or part of a study programme at all levels in a neighbouring Nordic country, and about the various subjects on offer.
6. Customs and taxation: Employers, workers, job-seekers, students and pensioners seek information on customs and taxation rules, for example if they live in one Nordic country and earn their income in another, or if they intend to move from one country to another.

7. Society: Many Nordic citizens seek information about the citizenship rules for children born abroad, dual citizenship and the rules for voting in elections if you have emigrated.
8. Travelling with animals, plants and foodstuffs: Many people travel with dogs or cats to visit family members or friends or to work abroad, and seek information about the rules for taking their pets with them to other Nordic countries. Others want to know what rules apply when they travel with food, plants or weapons.
9. Consumer questions: Consumers seek information about goods and services, including banking, insurance, postage and delivery costs, and about their rights when they buy from companies domiciled in other Nordic countries.
10. Business: Companies seek information about registration, VAT and payroll taxes, and ask questions about cross-border workers, home offices, social security, taxation and work permits – for example if they wish to establish themselves or carry out tasks of short duration in another Nordic country.

For 25 years, Info Norden has provided answers to young people and others who intend to relocate, study or change their job in the Nordic Region. This is important work which furthers the Nordic ambition to become the world's most integrated region.

Anders P. Hansen, president of the Nordic Youth Council

10 barriers

Individuals, companies, associations, organisations and other actors contact Info Norden with questions about crossing the Nordic borders, or with information about problems they have encountered. In 2023, Info Norden was contacted 152 times about possible border barriers or other challenges that might impede mobility in the Nordic Region. Below are ten examples of both new and well-known issues that Info Norden registered in 2023.

1. Digital challenges for mobile Nordic citizens: For the most part, digital services simplify the communication of citizens with the public sector, but between countries there is a digital wall. It is virtually impossible to log on to public services with an electronic ID from another Nordic country, and even where a citizen can log on to a public authority in another Nordic country, identity matching tools are lacking that could identify a person across national systems. The consequences for citizens might for example be not having access to pension prognoses from countries in which they have worked in the past.
2. Opening a bank account in another Nordic country: Having the right to open a bank account is not just a consumer issue – it is also about financial and social inclusion. Anyone may need to pay bills or receive wages or benefits. However, many banks in the Nordic countries refuse to create a bank account for persons who are not registered in the civil register of the country in question. This may include people who commute across borders for work, newcomers, owners of holiday homes, or guardians residing in a different country from their family members.
3. Waiting times for civil registration: In several countries, persons moving to these countries can experience long waiting times to be officially registered as residents and receive a civil registration number. The long processing times can occur because of bureaucracy, a lack of resources or increased demand. This creates challenges for people who need a civil registration number in order to access important services, such as being able to rent accommodation, open a bank account or take out a loan, register with the authorities, apply for a place for children in day-care centres, kindergartens or schools, purchase important subscriptions such as insurance, telephone or Internet, or enter into an employment contract.
4. Lack of information exchange between national registers: When someone relocates from one Nordic country to another and is registered in the new country, several details are exchanged between the population registers of both countries involved. However, information on later relocations, name changes or life events such as marriage, divorce or parenthood are not exchanged. This information must be supplied by the citizens themselves to the national registers of their former country of residence but many people lack information and clear instructions on how to do this. Another problem arises when people with dual nationality die: If the person concerned is a national of the country of residence, other countries are rarely informed of the death. This may mean that relatives are not informed about the death, and the deceased person's heirs may be deprived of their inheritance.

5. Teleworking and uncertainty about home working rules: Employees who wish to take advantage of the opportunity to work from home for an employer in another Nordic country may face challenges, as the rules for home working can vary between countries and employers. Tax, social security, holiday rules and employment conditions all depend on where the work is carried out. These complex situations create uncertainty for both employers and employees about the applicable rules, and it can be challenging for both parties to navigate between the different sets of legislation.
6. Cross-border commuting for third-country nationals: Nordic citizens are free to live and work throughout the Nordic countries, and the situation is almost as simple for citizens of EU and EEA countries. However, citizens from other countries must meet several conditions in order to be allowed to work in a Nordic country. Many third-country nationals contact Info Norden because they wish to work in a country other than the one in which they live and have a residence permit, but do not have the same opportunity as Nordic citizens to take advantage of the freedom of movement in the Nordic Region.
7. Telephone and Internet subscriptions: People who are temporarily resident in another Nordic country, such as owners of holiday homes, often find that they cannot set up telephone or Internet subscriptions because they do not have permanent residence there. This is despite the fact that, under the EU Telecommunications Directive, providers of electronic communications services may not discriminate against end-users on grounds of nationality or place of residence, unless this is objectively justified.
8. Insurance for foreign-registered car: In Norway, you can apply for permission to drive a foreign-registered car for up to two years if you can prove that your stay is temporary. However, as a general rule, you will need to register with the national register in Norway if you are staying in the country for more than six months. The problem that then arises is that the car owner cannot take out the statutory car insurance in Norway, because the car is registered abroad. At the same time the owner cannot take out insurance in the country of registration, as the owner is resident in another country.
9. Language requirement to receive unemployment benefit in Denmark: Denmark has introduced a language requirement for recent graduates applying for unemployment benefit. The requirement can be met through a completed 6th grade in Danish primary school, or through a Danish-language-based study programme, or by meeting an affiliation requirement. In relation to the language requirement, Norwegian and Swedish do not have the same status as Danish. You do not for example meet the language requirement if you live in Denmark and have completed an education in Sweden, or an English-language study programme in Denmark. Recent graduates whose mother tongue is another Nordic language, and who have taken advantage of the freedom of movement in the Nordic region to take an education in Denmark, do not thus have the same access to unemployment benefits as recent graduates whose mother tongue is Danish.

10. The right to vote in Longyearbyen: Longyearbyen is the administrative centre of Svalbard. Norway has introduced new rules requiring foreign nationals to have resided in a Norwegian mainland municipality for at least three years in order to be allowed to vote or stand for election to the local government in Longyearbyen. For this reason, many Danish, Finnish, Icelandic and Swedish citizens who live in Svalbard are excluded from participating in local elections and democratic processes.

Info Norden is essential for the work of the Freedom of Movement Council, both by gathering facts about border barriers that need to be removed, and by helping citizens and companies navigate the regulatory framework that forms the basis for mobility and cross-border transactions in the Nordic Region. In addition, Info Norden is an excellent support for me as chair of the Freedom of Movement Council in 2024.

Anders Ahnlid, chair of the Freedom of Movement Council

In the best of all possible worlds, mobility in the Nordic countries would be without barriers and it would be easy to move between our countries. The reality is different, and therefore the existence of Info Norden is of the greatest importance. When it comes to finding information about moving, studying or opening a business in another Nordic country, Info Norden's website is easy to navigate and well organised, and already has the answers to many questions. If a question has not yet been answered, there are also Info Norden's talented project managers, who can investigate and clarify questions regarding mobility and border barriers.

10 questions and answers

Info Norden provides answers to all kinds of questions about freedom of movement in the Nordic countries. As far as possible, the answers always refer the inquirer to information on Info Norden's own web pages, which are quality-assured by the relevant authorities, or to the authorities themselves. Here are ten anonymised examples of questions and answers from 2023.

1. I live in Denmark and work in both Norway and Sweden. How do I apply for Norwegian and Swedish pensions? When you apply for a Danish pension, your application will automatically apply to both Sweden and Norway as well. Udbetaling Danmark will obtain the relevant information and ensure that the application is passed on to the foreign pension authorities. You can find an application form at borger.dk, where you can also read about what documentation from Norway and Sweden you will need to enclose.
2. How are Norwegian qualifications recognised in Sweden, if I want to work there? Sweden recognises qualifications from the other Nordic countries. You can apply to have your qualifications recognised in Sweden if you are seeking admission to a study programme, or if you wish to transfer your study periods from your home country, or intend to start work. For more information and details about which authorities to contact, see the Info Norden article "authorisation and recognition of foreign qualifications in Sweden".
3. Is an enduring power of attorney issued in Denmark valid in Finland, so that I can obtain access to my brother's bank account? An enduring power of attorney ensures that your wishes and legal rights are respected and that your personal and financial circumstances are properly managed if you become ill, or are unable to make your own decisions due to physical or mental impairment. There are no common Nordic agreements to recognise such an agreement established in another Nordic country. This means that in the first instance, you should contact your brother's Finnish bank.
4. What do I need to consider if I live in Norway and work remotely for an employer in Sweden? Remote-working employees are subject to the same collective agreements, local agreements and practices as other employees. Normally, you are covered by social security in the country in which you physically work. If you work in Sweden but live in Norway, you will usually be covered by social security according to Swedish rules. If you exclusively work from home, you will be covered by Norwegian social security (Trygd). However, there are exceptions if you work in several countries. You should contact NAV and Försäkringskassan to find out what rules apply in your particular situation. Your taxation depends on your work situation, so you should also contact Skatteverket, the Swedish tax authority, for precise information on how your taxation will be affected.

5. Is it necessary to fill in a declaration of all your household goods, such as furniture, clothes, kitchen utensils, etc., when moving to Norway? You can take your household goods with you to Norway without paying customs duties or other tariffs if you have been continuously resident abroad for at least one year. You must have owned and used the items while you were abroad, and plan to continue using them in Norway after your relocation. To qualify for the exemption from customs duties, you must import your household goods within a reasonable period of time, and no later than one year after you have moved to Norway. There is no specific requirement regarding how long you must keep them before possibly selling them, without losing your tax exemption. You must also fill in the Household Goods Declaration (RD0030), which is available at the website of Tolletaten (the Norwegian Customs Service).
6. We are a Danish company sending employees to Norway to work as fitters. Will they need a special permit to work on a Norwegian construction site? Any company that carries out work in Norway on construction sites, or as a whole or a partial provider of cleaning services, manual car care, wheel storage or wheel changing, is required to provide all its employees with HSE (Health, Safety and Environment) cards. You can read more at hmskort.no. If you have any questions, you can contact Arbeidstilsynet (the Norwegian Labour Inspection Authority).
7. What will I need to get if I am going to Svalbard to work for six months? First and foremost, you should preferably already have a job in Svalbard before you move there. It is not easy to find a place to stay without a job, as most homes are offered via the workplace. If you intend to stay in Svalbard for less than six months, you will not be registered as resident there. You can read more about Svalbard in the Info Norden article "Moving or travelling to Svalbard".
8. How can I register my child as a Swedish citizen if the child is born in Denmark? The citizenship of a child born in the Nordic countries depends on the citizenship of the parents. If one of the parents is a Swedish citizen and the child is born outside Sweden, the child will be a Swedish citizen, but will not automatically be registered in the Swedish national register at birth, and will not be given a Swedish civil registration number. You can register your child with its first name and surname in the Swedish national register by filling in the form SKV 7750 and sending it to Skatteverket (the Swedish Tax Agency). The child will then be registered as a Swedish citizen and assigned a Swedish co-ordination number.
9. What will I need to do in the process of inheritance after the death of my uncle, who lives in Finland? The EU Succession Regulation determines which country's rules should be applied in connection with inheritance. The general rule is that it is the rules of the country in which the deceased lived at the time of death that apply. You can read more in the Info Norden article "Death of a family member in Finland".
10. If I am a dual national of Finland and Sweden, will I be subject to conscription in the event of war?
As a citizen of a Nordic country, you are in principle subject to the military service rules of that country. If you are a citizen of a country where compulsory military service applies, you may be required to take military service there even if you now reside in another country. However, an international agreement stipulates that a person with citizenship in two or more Nordic countries must serve his or her military service in the country where he or she resides. You can read more in Section 3 of the Finnish Conscription Act.

For us in the Nordic Council, it has always been particularly important to safeguard and promote the popular dimension of the Nordic cooperation. We attach great importance to those institutions and projects that are in direct contact with citizens and help them in their everyday lives. Info Norden is an excellent example of such a service – one that builds bridges between the Nordic countries by focusing on the needs and questions of ordinary people.

Bryndís Haraldsdóttir, president of the Nordic Council

10 arenas for co-operation

Info Norden cooperates and maintains networks with authorities, embassies and organisations throughout the Nordic Region. Moreover, Info Norden provides information services for all types of stakeholders. In 2023, Info Norden organised or contributed to 47 different events.

1. Nordic embassies: In 2023, Info Norden maintained close contact with the Nordic embassies to exchange updates on Nordic mobility, legislative changes and the challenges that Nordic residents encounter when moving, working or studying in other Nordic countries. This contact contributed to improving the level of information for both the embassies and Info Norden on current issues faced by the citizens of the countries concerned. There are various ways of sharing knowledge with the embassies in each country.
2. Freedom of Movement Council: In 2023, Info Norden held a meeting with the Freedom of Movement Council to discuss the current challenges facing Nordic residents, including issues relating to pensions, work, e-ID and the possibilities of being able to communicate digitally with the public authorities and carry out cross-border transactions throughout the Nordic Region. During the meeting, the possibility of updating the cooperation between Info Norden and the Freedom of Movement Council was also discussed, with a view to establishing common goals for a secure Nordic Region for both citizens and businesses. The aim was to strengthen the cooperation and improve the ability to assist each other.
3. Editorial Group for Social Security Issues in the Nordic Region: Info Norden is part of a formalised collaboration with 13 social security authorities in the Nordic Region, which is responsible for Info Norden's web articles on social security. The articles cover such topics as retirement, maternity leave, child benefits, unemployment benefits and housing benefits. Info Norden meets regularly with the authorities to ensure that the information is up-to-date and easily accessible.
4. Swedish Parliamentary Committee on Social Insurance: Info Norden presented its work on mobility and border barriers in the Nordic Region to the Swedish Parliamentary Committee on Social Insurance. The focus was on information and challenges relating to social security and the future labour market, with remote and hybrid working. It was discussed how the Nordic labour market can attract digital nomads and ensure that people with permanent residence and work permits can make use of free mobility throughout the Nordic Region. The discussion also dealt with social security needs across the Region, and the role of the Committee in promoting an integrated Nordic Region through legislation.

5. Re-start competence mobility: From 2021 to 2023, Info Norden was part of the reference group for the project Re-start Competence Mobility in the Nordic Region, which was led by the Nordic research centre Nordregio. The project concluded in 2023 with the publication of a policy brief under the title: "How can labour market mobility in the Nordic Region be increased?"
6. Film about Info Norden's services to Nordic residents: In 2023, Info Norden produced four short films about different aspects of the organisation's services and operations: the web pages, the inquiry response service, the work on freedom of movement and Info Norden's role in the Nordic co-operation. The videos provide Info Norden's users and stakeholders with a concise, overall picture of the service. The videos were published on 9 July, the anniversary of the service's inauguration, and, through paid marketing, they have been viewed approximately 564,000 times on Facebook and 174,000 times on YouTube.
7. Anniversary events: On the occasion of the Info Norden anniversary, Info Norden and the NORDEN Association held the conference "The Nordic Region with and without borders" in Copenhagen, at which politicians, researchers and other actors examined the status of integration in the Nordic Region. The anniversary was also celebrated in connection with the Nordic Council Session in Oslo with, amongst others, the president of the Nordic Council, Jorodd Asphjell.
8. A visible part of the Nordic co-operation: Every year, Info Norden contributes to the official Nordic co-operation's events and activities on Nordic Day and at democracy festivals in the Nordic countries. A major investment in 2023 was the activities on Nordic Day in Helsinki, where approximately 750 people participated in panel debates and other events. Info Norden contributed to the implementation of activities in the Nordic marquee at Arendal Week in Norway and Almedalen Week in Sweden, and at Copenhagen Night of Culture, Info Norden ran an information stand at the event in Nordens Hus.
9. Social media: Info Norden uses social media to reach different target groups. Via Facebook, Nordic residents are informed of the relevant factors to consider when they relocate, work or study in another Nordic country. On the platform X, Info Norden maintains contact with stakeholders such as politicians, officials and actors from other organisations. In 2023, Info Norden also created a page on LinkedIn to reach new audiences among users and stakeholders.
10. Newsletters: Info Norden's eight offices provide information on mobility in the Nordic Region through national newsletters, which are primarily aimed at partners, public authorities and politicians. Table 14: Inquiries registered as possible border barriers

Info Norden can register an inquiry as dealing with a 'possible border barrier'. This may concern new or well-known issues, or relate to barriers that meet the Freedom of Movement Council's definition of a border barrier, or issues that have not yet been clarified. The role of Info Norden is to collect and report information about border barriers to the Freedom of Movement Council. The goal is to receive relatively few trivial inquiries, and relatively more inquiries relating to possible obstacles to freedom of movement. The proportion of all inquiries relating to possible border barriers is a measure of this..

Year	Number	As a proportion of total inquiries
2023	152	32,9 ‰
2022	137	25,5 ‰
2021	67	13,4 ‰
2020	95	24,0 ‰

Info Norden's information activities

Info Norden's information activities cover all aspects of the work for freedom of movement in the Nordic Region, and may include seminars, conferences, presentations, meetings with stakeholders, targeted digital information for Info Norden's target groups and social media campaigns.

Nordic co-operation

Nordic co-operation is one of the world's most extensive forms of regional collaboration, involving Denmark, Finland, Iceland, Norway, Sweden, and the Faroe Islands, Greenland and Åland.

Nordic co-operation has firm traditions in politics, economics and culture and plays an important role in European and international forums. The Nordic community strives for a strong Nordic Region in a strong Europe.

Nordic co-operation promotes regional interests and values in a global world. The values shared by the Nordic countries help make the region one of the most innovative and competitive in the world.
